If you love the idea of a new life without being hung up by past deeds, then there is a program you might be interested in. The concept is simple – you need to sign up and then draw one of the six cards with the greatest potential for your future. At the same time, you should remember that each card also has a ‘cost’ of certain losses – when you deal with a new card, you don't receive any cash back. How will your actions affect your future? There are no guarantees of success – it's all up to your destiny. Just sign up now and get ready for the future.Q: How to change fill color in HTML Pie chart? I'm using the HTML Pie chart. I would like to change the fill color to white in the toolkit. I looked at the documentation and I see no where to change it. Anyone know? I tried to just set it to white in my CSS.

Didn't work. #custo{ border:

chart's fill attribute controls the color of the inner shadow. As you can see from the working example, you need to either set the stroke color to transparent or set the fill color to a solid color.

Simple macros for Nisus Writer – The macros for text
e-mails are again updated: *

Nisus Writer 3.7.2 Macros – Version 3.7.2, from 2004-2009 – is the latest incremental update to the Nisus Writer 3.x family of macros, which provide a great deal of power for creating e-mails that work great and cost very little of your time to customize. Not only have these macros been updated and enhanced, they now include a few new macro types. Both of the new macro types support the Insert/Delete format. While the current format only allows for adding or deleting text, the new format allows inserting or deleting code blocks, which makes creating e-mails a bit more flexible, and much faster. The third macro type, which has been available in Nisus Writer since 2001, provides a much more powerful format than simply inserting or deleting text. This format is more similar to an HTML code block, and provides a rich set of options and formatting capabilities. All macros for Nisus Writer use a standard coding style. This makes coding in macros a lot easier, since it uses the same coding style that other macros in Nisus Writer use, so new macros can easily be added to Nisus Writer 3.7.2. Each macro type has a single unique macro identifier, and are associated with a unique macro language. This allows new macro types to be developed with very little effort, since Nisus Writer macros are already written in the macro language associated with the macro type. Many of the macros included with Nisus Writer

3.7.2 are simply standard macros. Many others were written specifically for this new release, and feature many new or enhanced options. It is hoped that this new release will provide a better macro environment for many users, and for these new macros, the development effort was worth the investment. This latest release of macros provides a variety of new options, including: * The ability to have multiple macros on a single page. *

The ability to define a macro with several sections, and the ability to have multiple macro sections on a single page. *

The ability to have a single text page for the entire macro, and to add images for all sections of a macro. *

The ability to have a "title" for a macro that is set at the top of the page. *

The ability to use the "normal
